COMMENT OF THE DAY

THE end of the year brings a new

L State into being. Libya becomes an independent kingdom. It is the latest stage in one of the most important and significant developments of the present phase of world history.

In retrospect the achievement of national independence by the countries of the Middle East and of Southern Asia will appear more important than the loss of their independence by the countries of Eastern Europe. Because the one will, almost certainly be permanent, the other, quite certainly, transitory.

Yet the magnitude of the change in the "Arab-Asian" countries is often overlooked outside the area itself.

Thirty years ago the whole vast region from Tripoli to the Celebes, with the exception of the Arabian peninsula, Persia. Afghanistan and Siam, was under the rule - either directly or in the guise of protectorates or of "mandates" - of European Powers. Today, with insignificant exceptions, all these countries are either completely independent or are in rapid evolution to independence. Northern Asia, though the Asian republics of the Soviet Union are in theory self-governing, is still in common practice governed from Moscow. But much of the South is independent or on the verge of independence. It is a great historic change.

Moreover it is a change in which Britain has naturally and inevitably played a major part. Britain was (except for Russia) the greatest of the European imperial Powers in Asia.

She ruled the Indian Empire, with a population of nearly 400 million. She held after the first World War the mandate of Iraq, Palestine and Trans-

Independence

Wrote Farewell Note, But Survived

West Frankfurt, Illinois, Dec. 26. Cecil Sanders, the only man to survive the Orient mine explosion, which killed 119 miners jast Friday, scribbled a note to his wife and two children saying "Meet me in Heaven" before losing consciousness from gas poisoning.

He wrote the note on a packet of sweets and it was found by a nurse in the hospital where he was tonight still recovering. Most of the time Sanders was conscious he pray-

Korea Armistice Negotiations

Ridgway Authorised To Extend 30-Day Agreement

Washington, Dec. 26. General Matthew B. Ridgway, the United Nations Supreme Commander in Korea, has been authorised to extend for 30 days if he sees fit the agreement with the Communists that the existing battle-line in Korea shall be the line for an armistice if one is negotiated. Diplomatic officials who reported this today expected both sides to agree to a temporary extension while the negotiations go forward on other details of the cease-fire. The 30-day agreement on the renewal of large-scale fighting cease-fire demarcation line is over Korean territory.

did not. But it was certain in the long run that a nation who believed in Democracy and in self-government for its own people could not deny them for others which happened by historical accident to have come under its own rule. It was inevitable that Britain should set up organs of local self-government in India; and from the moment that was done the evolution to complete self-government was as.

sured, not only for India, but for other Asian and African territories which were under, or might come under British rule. The decision had in fact been made. It was recognised that the right to self-govern was not something reserved by nature for peoples of European stock. The process of evolution has been at times a painful one.

But the issue has never been in doubt.

Libya is the last of the Arab countries to have come by the chance of war under British administrative control.

Under the terms of the peace treaty the decision as to its future was to be made by the four great Powers, or failing them, agreement by the United Nations Assembly. When the question first came up for consideration at the Paris meeting of the Council of Foreign

Ministers in April 1946, the late Mr

Bevin at once urged that the two Italian colonies of Tripolitania and Cyrenaica should be given as soon as possible full independence as a united state of Libya. But there was no agreement.

The story of the negotiations and of attempts first in the Council of Foreign Ministers, then in the Assembly is long, complex and not very edifying.

But there is a reason for satisfaction that at last the British point of view prevailed and that the Assembly decision in 1950 was for independence by January 1952 when the British administration in Tripolitania and Cyrenalca and the French administration in the Fezzan would come to an end. That moment has now come and Libys (or the greater part of it) is added to the list of Arab countries which have gained their independence as the result of a long-term British policy that has been and is being ap-piled throughout Asia and Africa.

At the second trick, Schenken laid down the ace of hearts Since East failed to follow sult. Schenken continued by finessing through West's queen. His jack of hearts was covered by West's queen and won by dummy's king. A third round of trumps fell to declarer's ten, and now it was safe to begin on the diamonds. West could ruff whenever he liked, but that was the only trick the defenders could take. The ace of hearts would be the safe play even it East happened to have all four trumps. (A 4-0 trump break was the only danger). In that case, Schenken could continue with the jack of hearts to force out the queen He could ruff a second spade with

ON THE SOUTH AMERICANS Says IVAN SHARPE

Are the Football Association really serious about this project to take England's £500,000 international team on a 12,000-miles tour to play Uruguay, Brazil and Argentina, in one trip, on the blistering grounds of South America?

Will they tackle the World Cup winners, World Cup finalists, and their nearest challengers all in one fell swoop, in the summer of 1953? Advices from Argentina say so. From such an equatorial adventure—matches in tropical weather on sunburnt grounds, to which our players are unaccustomed-the England team emerged in the World Cup with two unforgettable black eyes: one from Spain and the other from an unknown footballing country called USA. Isn't the over-weighted visit If Mr Emery means that the next May to Italy, Austria and average player is working less

Why we say Canteen.

The army "canteen", a place where soldiers are served with a meal, is far removed from original "canto", from which the word is derived. "Canto" is an Italian word for a corner and a "cantina" is a cellar or a "little corner" where wine may be kept. Later, food as well was stored in and served from the "canteen."
